NAME AND AGE CARDS.

Each pack contains eight cards. One hundred and twenty-seven names are enumerated upon the cards, the list covering all the common and popular names. By a very simple method, the age and name of any person can be ascertained. Put up in pasteboard cases.

OLD MAID AND BACHELOR.

This is the cheapest old maid game in the market. It is comically illustrated, and complete in every respect. It will settle the old bachelor question as readily as the old maid, and with as much facility as the more elaborately finished packs, which retail at four times its price. Put up in pasteboard cases.

MADLE LE NORMAND'S FORTUNE-TELLING CARDS.

These are the most scientific and elaborate fortune-telling cards that have ever been devised. They forecast events with remarkable certainty. Madle Le Normand used them to predict the greatness of Napoleon I. Various other important events have likewise been foretold with them. Put up in pasteboard cases.

CONVERSATION CARDS.....Retail 20c. each.

These Cards are among the oldest and most popular of amusements. Originally intended for people of small conversational powers, they are now used by pleasure-seekers of all classes. The variety of conversations resulting from a single pack is immense. Each set is devoted to special subjects of conversation, making the entire series very perfect and desirable to each purchaser. To bashful people, they are a great blessing, not only furnishing an hour's amusement, but sometimes leading them to the gates of matrimony.

CINDERELLA SERIES.....Retail 30c. each.

LITTLE RED RIDING-HOOD.

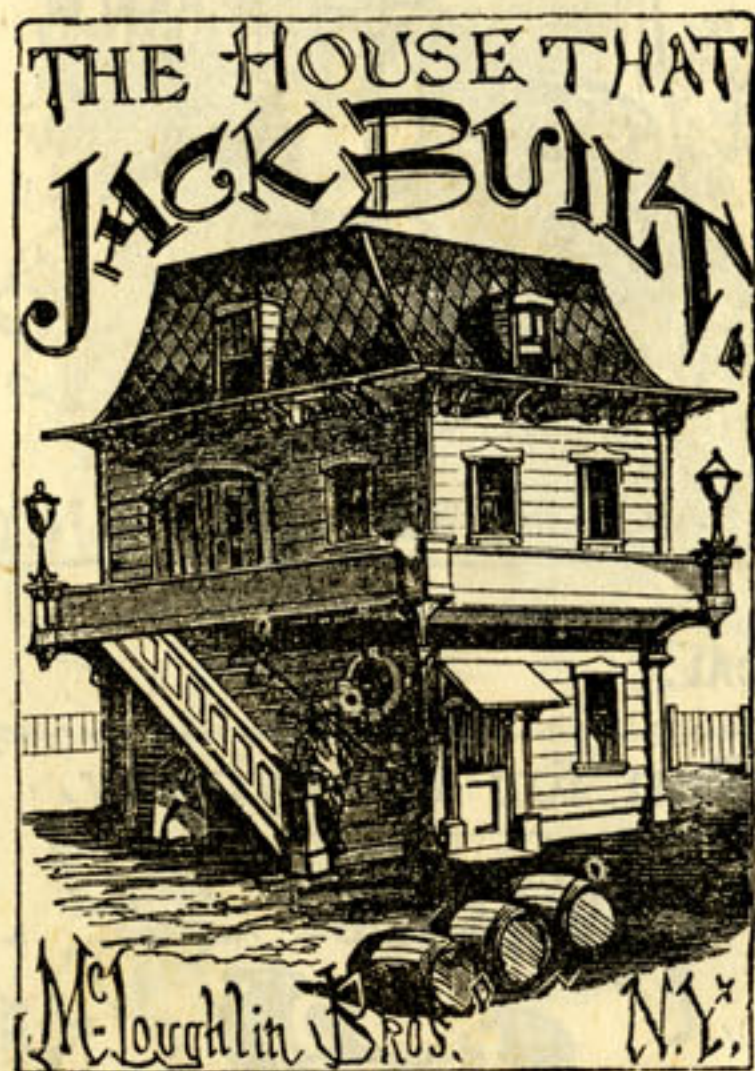

The game consists in fitting out Little Red Riding-Hood for her visit to her grandmother, and filling her basket with presents. The successful player is the one who contributes the most to this end. Recently revised and improved by the addition of a tee-to-tum.

COCK ROBIN.

Who killed Cock Robin? Who saw him die, etc., have been asked the world over. These questions, with their appropriate answers, are contained in the cards. The object is to play the proper answer to the question asked, each correct answer making a point in the game.

THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT.

Jack's house is the central card. As the game runs, Jack lived in this house, and offered to pay a large sum, for all the things named in the story of this wonderful place, as told by Mother Goose. The names of these things appear on the cards, and the lucky players get prizes for them, varying with the different phases of the game.

MOTHER HUBBARD.

This game contains, besides the story of Mother Hubbard's Famous Dog, as told by Mother Goose, a new one written expressly for it, both of which are used in play. In the course of the game, the cards are made to supply omitted parts of the new story, and the context is often very ridiculous.

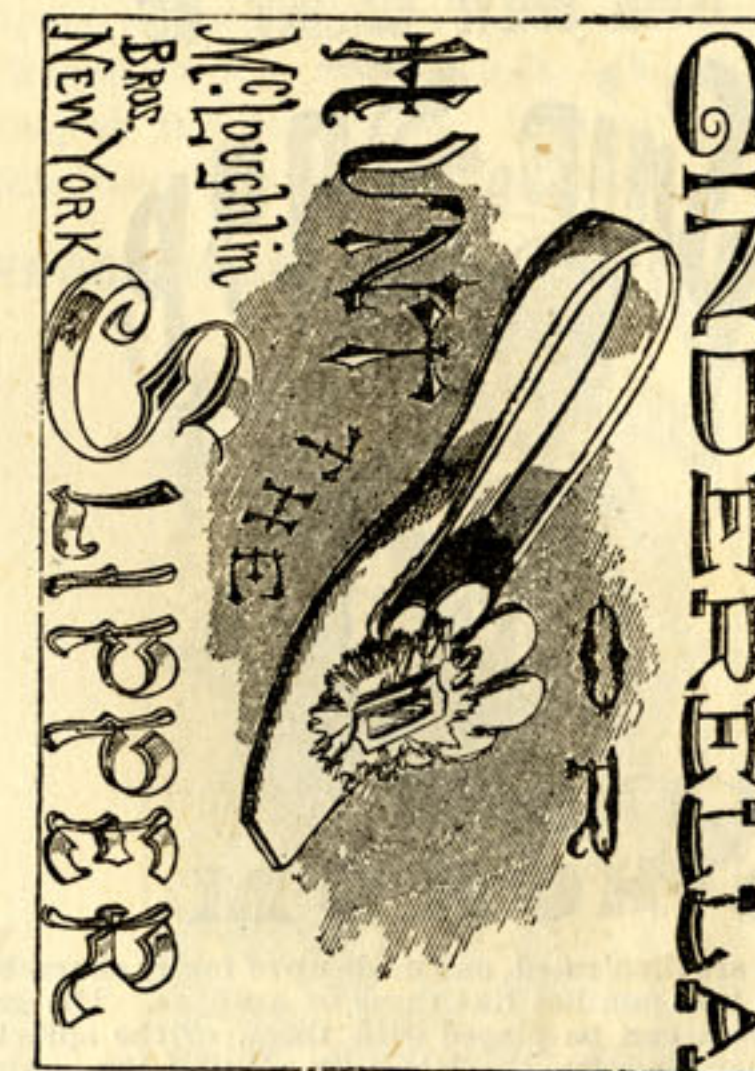

CINDERELLA SERIES.—continued.....Retail 30c. each.

WHERE IS JOHNNY?

Johnny is one of the cards, and is supposed to be lost in the pack. In the course of the play, his cap, satchel, boots and mittens turn up, showing that he is near by. At last, Johnny turns up himself, and ends the game.

CINDERELLA.

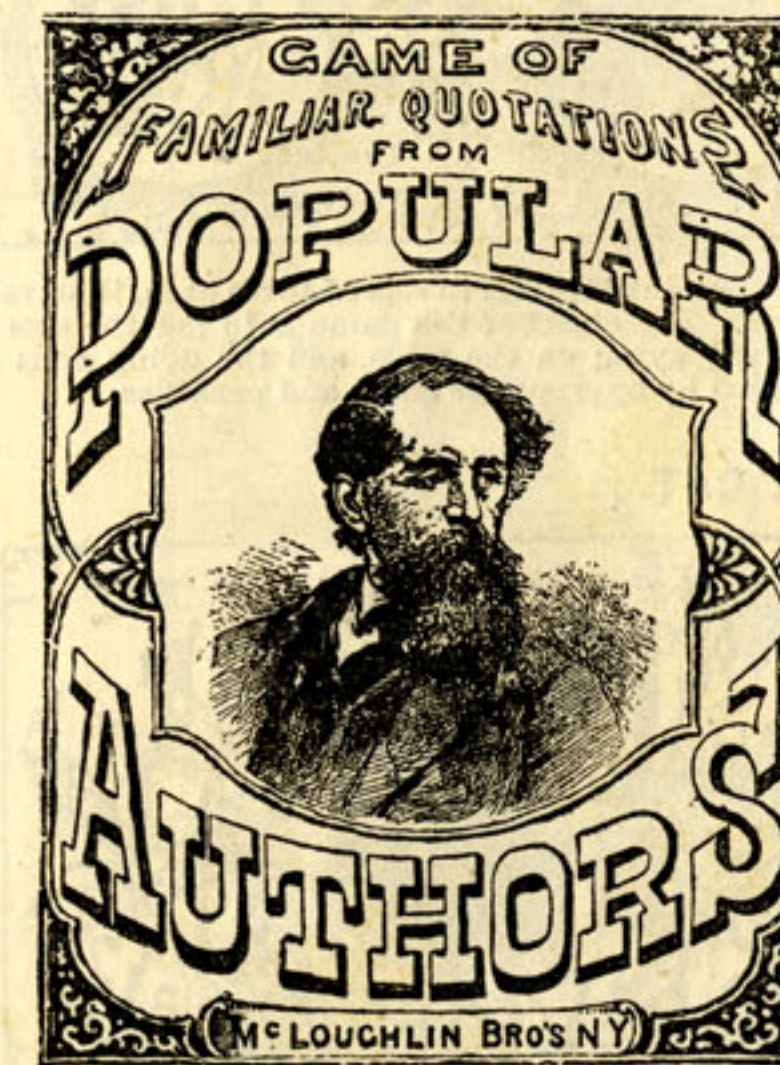

Two things are very fascinating to young people. One, the story of the patient and beautiful Cinderella and her Little Glass Slipper; the other, the game of Old Maids. The game above named is, as nearly as it can be described, a combination of these two.

THE MERRY GAME OF OLD MAIDS.

The game of Old Maids has been handed down to us from former generations. Its popularity is still undiminished, and there has been no change in the method of playing. It consists in matching the cards, the odd one being the Old Maid. Popular edition of 36 cards, printed in colors.

FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS FROM POPULAR AUTHORS.

This game makes use of choice quotations from the best Authors, instead of the titles of their works, and many of these are aphorisms well worth remembering. It is played like other Author games, which are too well known to need description.

SNIP, SNAP, SNORUM.

The cards are illustrated, and made up of funny characters, divided into families like those of Authors. The game of Authors can be played with them, or the sprightly Snip Snap Snorem, the latter by playing the cards in tricks with appropriate scores.

ONE, TWO, THREE.

The pack contains 48 cards, in sets of three each, illustrated in colors. The object of the game is to get the sets together by playing on the table, and the doing so is accompanied by appropriate gains and penalties.

BLACK CAT.

The object in this game is to make up a cat from cards containing the parts of a cat. The arrangement is novel, and produces a very spirited and pleasing game, essentially new in character.

DR. FUSBY.

The great, great grandfather of a whole family of games, including the various kinds of Authors, which it resembles in play. It still lives, and as with Mother Goose in the nursery, in the drawing-room, it never loses cast. New and very fine edition.

WHAT D'YE BUY.

In this game each player assumes the character of a tradesman, and is supplied with a sign-card, articles for sale. A conductor, with a "short memory," reads a story, and the players help him out by introducing the articles for sale.

FARMER TROTT.

The cards represent Farmer Trott and his family, and the articles they bought while out shopping. They are played in answer to questions as to what they bought. The best answer wins the game.

GRANDMA'S GAMES.....Retail 30c. each.

This series covers a wide range of facts, and is one of the most instructive ever placed before the public. The arrangement is such, that the players are drawn into a competition, at once pleasurable and profitable, and the facts strongly impressed on their minds—the Game thus performing the double office, of amusing and instructing at the same time. It consists of a series of question cards, and a book of answers, both of which have been carefully prepared.

ADDEMUP AND DIVIDEM.

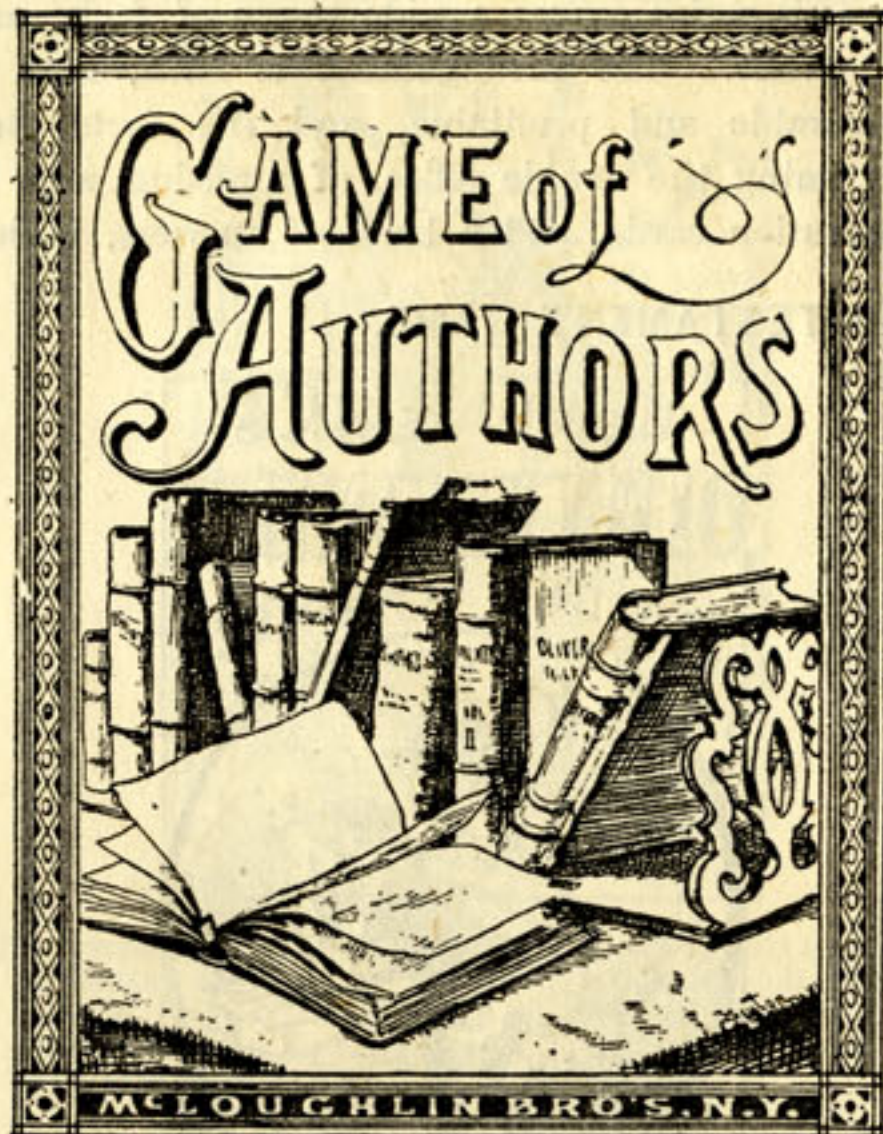

An attractive game both in appearance and play. It is somewhat arithmetical, and gives full scope for an active mind, while its simplicity makes it an unfailing source of pleasure to those who do not care for scientific play. 56 cards bearing banners, put up in sliding cases.

CHIT CHAT.

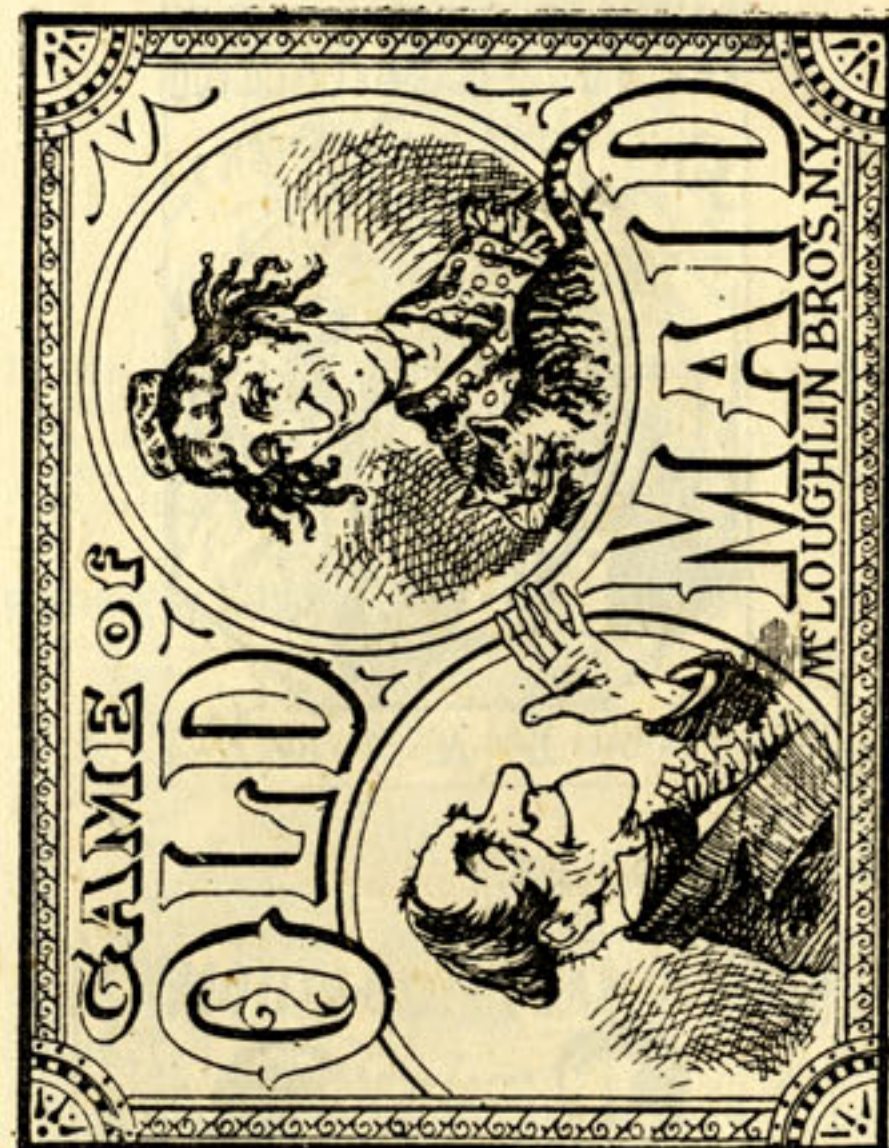

The most humorous set of illustrated conversation cards ever devised. They contain questions of all kinds, suited to all classes of people, with appropriate and spicy answers, calculated to produce unbounded merriment. Unlike many similar cards, they contain nothing objectionable to people of refined taste.

GAME OF AUTHORS.

The latest, best and cheapest. Its books are so classified and valued as to give the finest results in play, and at the same time cause the least trouble to the player. If the cards are held fan-like in the hand, a glance will show the name, rank, and value of each card, and its relation to every other card in the pack, and this without shuffling. 48 cards, in sliding cases.

OLD MAID,

Is too well known to need description. Old Maids are always favorites with young people. They are handy to have in the house, and, as a rule, are the most reliable games for the store-keeper as well as the amusement-seeker. This one is the newest and best of its grade on the market.

NEW GAMES, — continued.....Retail 30c. each.
MAGIC SPORT.

A wonderful set of cards for finding out secrets. They will tell the name, age, birthplace, occupation, and many other interesting facts about a person. As character-telling cards, they take everyone with surprise. Very simple, and yet mysterious to the uninitiated.

MADAM MORROWS' CARDS,

come to us from one of the most distinguished Fortune-Tellers. Many true fortunes have been told with them, and no doubt will continue to be told for a long time to come. They have the advantage over other cards in so combining as to produce a different fortune, whether good or bad, in every case. In ordinary cards the same fortune is read off in the same words a hundred times over

GAME OF WHAT WAS IT.

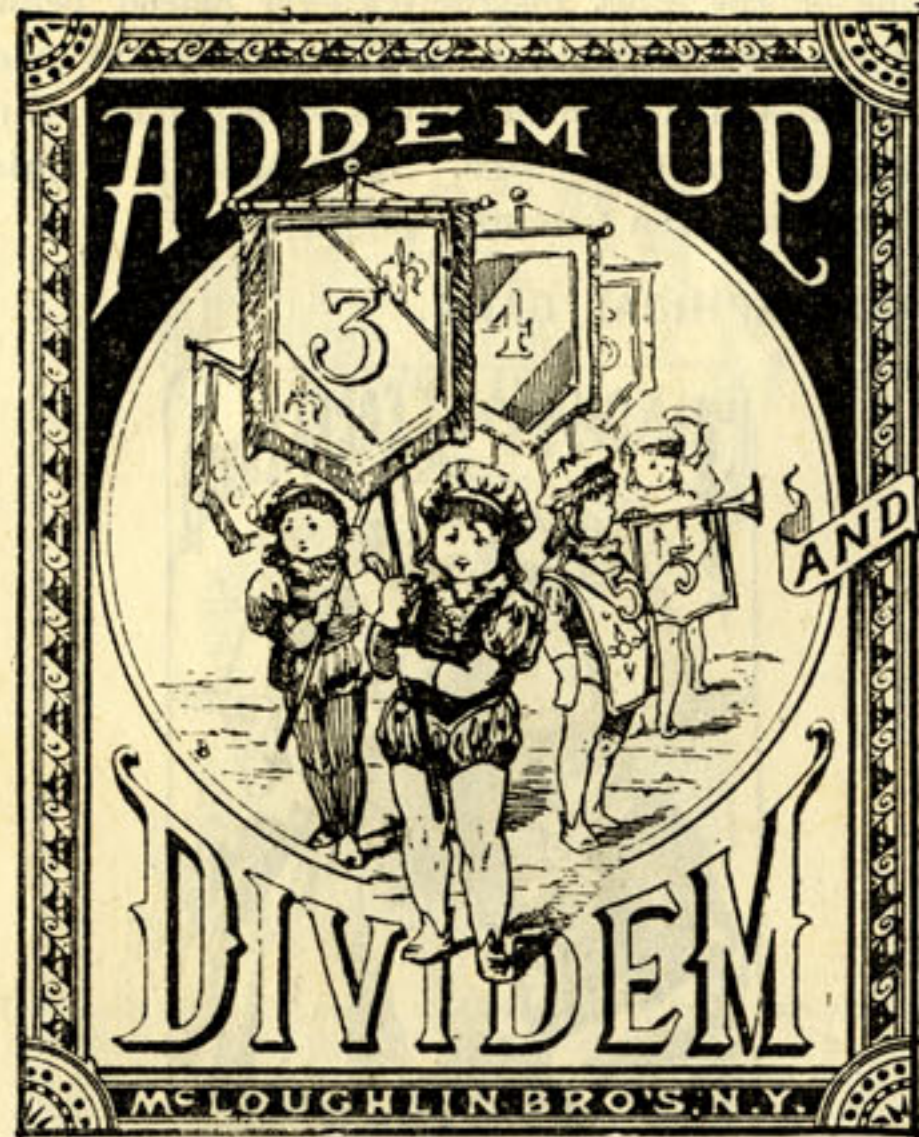

One of the simplest and best of calling games. It partakes a little of the character of Authors, and yet is better adapted to young people than even that popular game. It ought to find its way into every household where standard amusements are desired for the young.

ORACLE OF FATE.

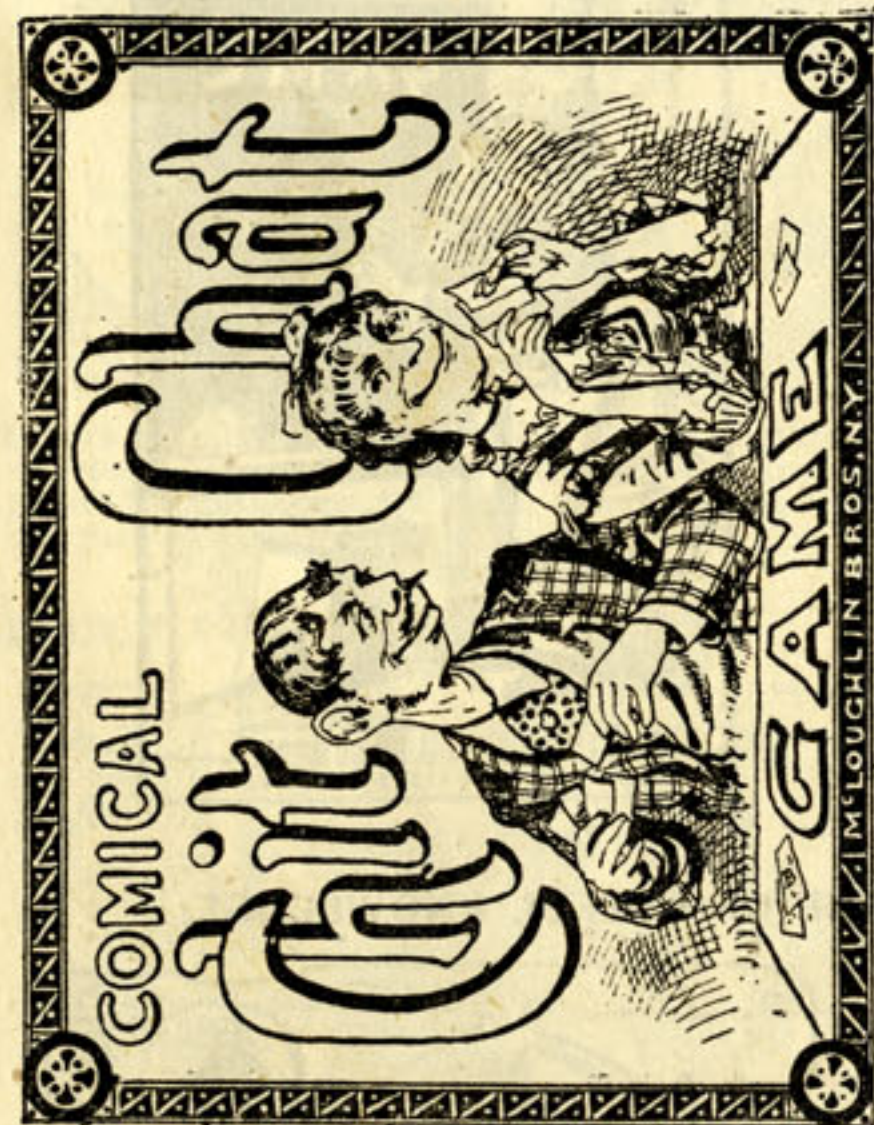

To "know thyself" is the greatest knowledge a person can possess. We think we know ourselves, but we can never do so for "sartin" until we have consulted the Oracle. It will tell us much that we want to know, and we can learn its views on many subjects that concern our welfare.

CHIT CHAT.

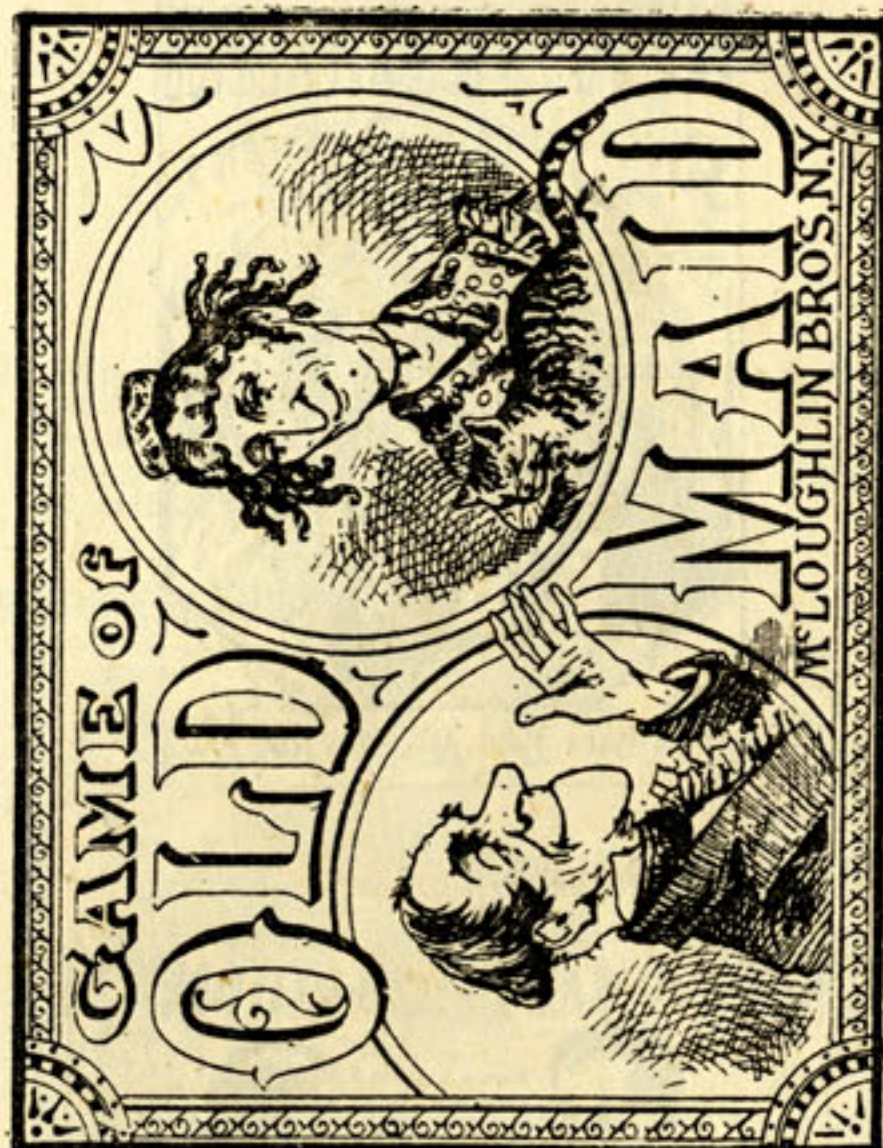

The most humorous set of illustrated conversation cards ever devised. They contain questions of all kinds, suited to all classes of people, with appropriate and spicy answers, calculated to produce unbounded merriment. Unlike many similar cards, they contain nothing objectionable to people of refined taste.

GAME OF AUTHORS.

The latest, best and cheapest. Its books are so classified and valued as to give the finest results in play, and at the same time cause the least trouble to the player. If the cards are held fan-like in the hand, a glance will show the name, rank, and value of each card, and its relation to every other card in the pack, and this without shuffling. 48 cards, in sliding cases.

OLD MAID,

Is too well known to need description. Old Maids are always favorites with young people. They are handy to have in the house, and, as a rule, are the most reliable games for the store-keeper as well as the amusement-seeker. This one is the newest and best of its grade on the market.

NEW GAMES, — continued.....Retail 30c. each.
MAGIC SPORT.

A wonderful set of cards for finding out secrets. They will tell the name, age, birthplace, occupation, and many other interesting facts about a person. As character-telling cards, they take everyone with surprise. Very simple, and yet mysterious to the uninitiated.

MADAM MORROWS' CARDS,

come to us from one of the most distinguished Fortune-Tellers. Many true fortunes have been told with them, and no doubt will continue to be told for a long time to come. They have the advantage over other cards in so combining as to produce a different fortune, whether good or bad, in every case. In ordinary cards the same fortune is read off in the same words a hundred times over

GAME OF WHAT WAS IT.

One of the simplest and best of calling games. It partakes a little of the character of Authors, and yet is better adapted to young people than even that popular game. It ought to find its way into every household where standard amusements are desired for the young.

ORACLE OF FATE.

To "know thyself" is the greatest knowledge a person can possess. We think we know ourselves, but we can never do so for "sartin" until we have consulted the Oracle. It will tell us much that we want to know, and we can learn its views on many subjects that concern our welfare.

OLD TIME COMIC CONVERSATION CARDS.
Retail 80 cents each.

42 Cards, extra slip surface, illustrated with figures in the old time costume of knee breeches, wigs, etc. Printed in two colors. Very showy and attractive. Put up in large sliding case.

AUTHORS.

Retail 40 cts. each.

This is the plain edition, containing sixty cards, giving the titles of the works of the best authors. It contains classified or lettered books, and makes a very substantial game. Put up in fancy cases.

GIFTS, USES AND CONSEQUENCES.
Retail 30 cts. each.

This game consists of three sets of cards—one, of gifts, another, of their uses; and a third, the consequences of such uses. These cards produce 3800 laughable combinations—more than ten good laughs for every day in the year. Laugh and grow fat!

GAME OF NATIONS.

Retail 40 cts. each.

These cards have been designed as a substitute for playing cards. Their illustrations exhibit the peoples of Europe, Asia, Africa and America. They are accompanied by directions for two games, but very many of the common games in vogue can be played with them.

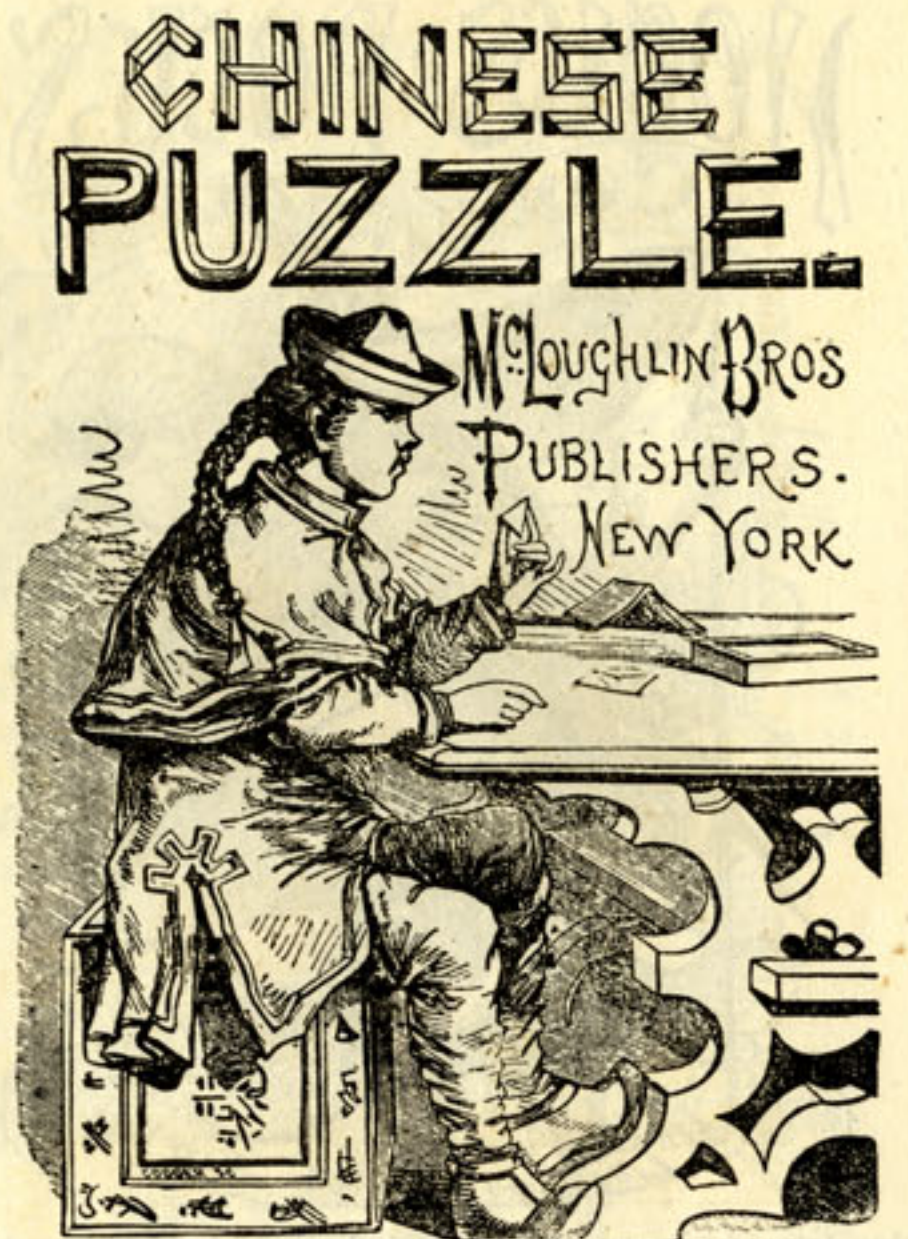

Retail 60 cents each.

CITY TRAVELER.

This game consists of a series of cards, and a book describing, in a very spicy manner, the "Seeing of the Elephant" in a large city. Parts of the story are omitted, and are to be supplied by the cards. Very amusing and comical.

CHINESE PUZZLE.

This puzzle consists of seven pieces of black walnut, cut thin in geometrical figures. Each box contains sixty colored illustrations of puzzles that can be made with the blocks, besides a key to the puzzles.

YANKEE PEDLAR.

This is another of those highly amusing games, consisting of a story, with breaks here and there, which the players fill up by reading from their cards. The result is always very laughable. Each player becomes a pedlar, and puts out his sign.

THE GOLDEN EGG.

This is truly a merry round game. It contains a golden egg and 32 cards. Of these, six are egg-cards. The golden egg passes to players turning up egg-cards, and it requires quick wit to score the points made at each stage of the game.

HOCUS POCUS CONJUROCUS.

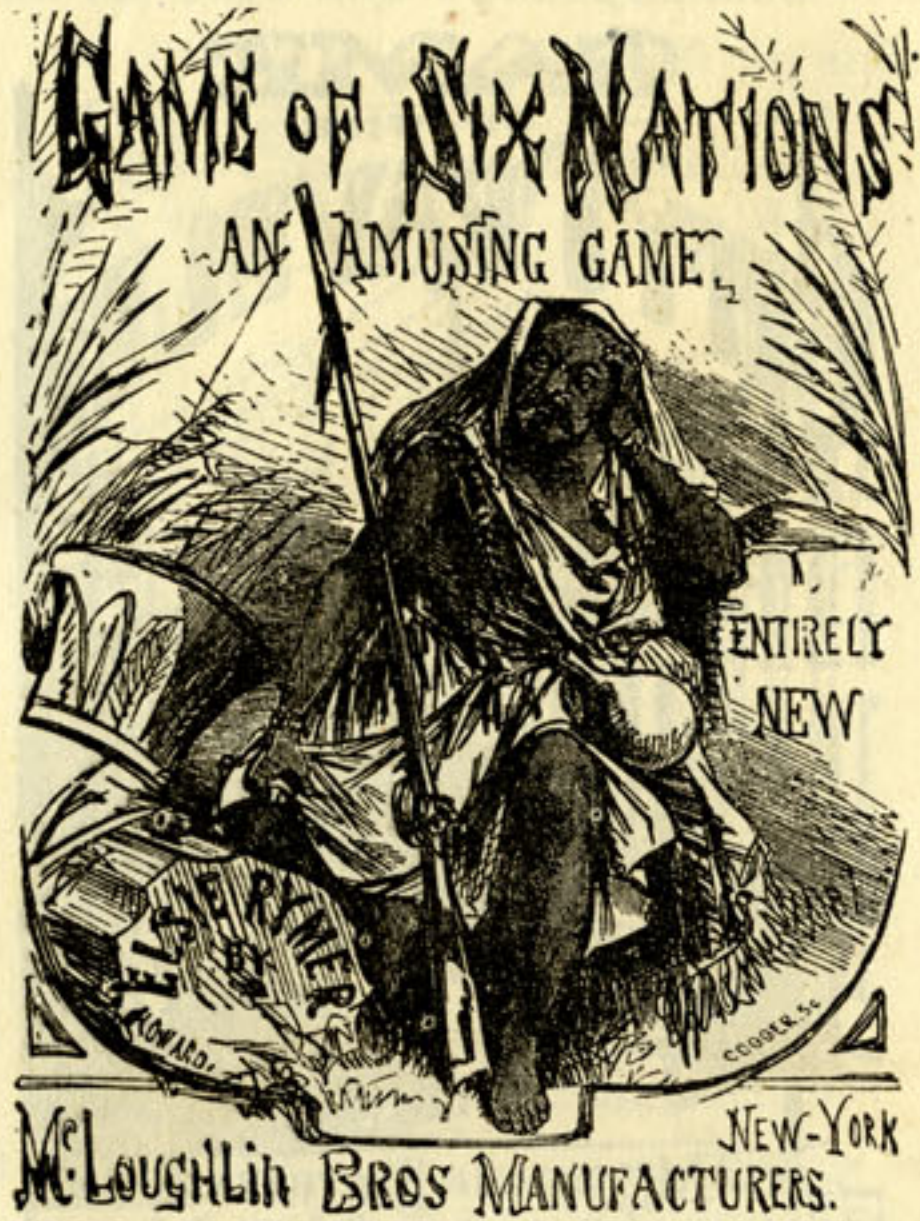

Consists of two sets of illustrated comical cards in colors. The players first form a pool. One set of cards is kept in the hand, the other drawn from a bag or handkerchief. The game is very odd, and the payments required of the various players keep the excitement up to the end.

GAME OF BUGLE-HORN.

Based on the story of Robin Hood. Friar Tuck, Allan-a-Dale, and others of Robin Hood's merry men, have their places in the game as well as the archers, and the famous bugle; the latter controlling the game as Robin Hood did his men. Illustrated in colors. Large wooden box.

GAME OF SIX NATIONS.

This game contains six large, or "Nation Cards," and 36 small ones of animals, or objects, common to those nations. Each player represents a nation, and barter or sells the object cards, according to the rules. Illustrated in colors. Large wooden box.

VISIT TO CAMP.

An Inspector relates the incidents of his visit to a camp, omitting parts of his story, which the players supply from the cards, held by them. Ridiculous and very entertaining for a large party. Large wooden box.

Retail 60 cents each.

MERRY GOOSE GAME.

Forty-nine cards, each bearing a rhyme from Mother Goose, and an appropriate illustration in colors. This game is a pleasant variation from "Old Maid"—a goose taking the place of the antiquated lady.

ORIENTAL COLOR GAME.

One of our new style of games, played with cards, and an Indicator, or substitute for dice. The cards are odd in design, and printed in colors. The game depends upon the colors, and numbers of the cards; and the spinning of the Indicator upon each play, adds an element of chances that greatly enlivens the game.

CENTENNIAL PRESIDENTIAL GAME.

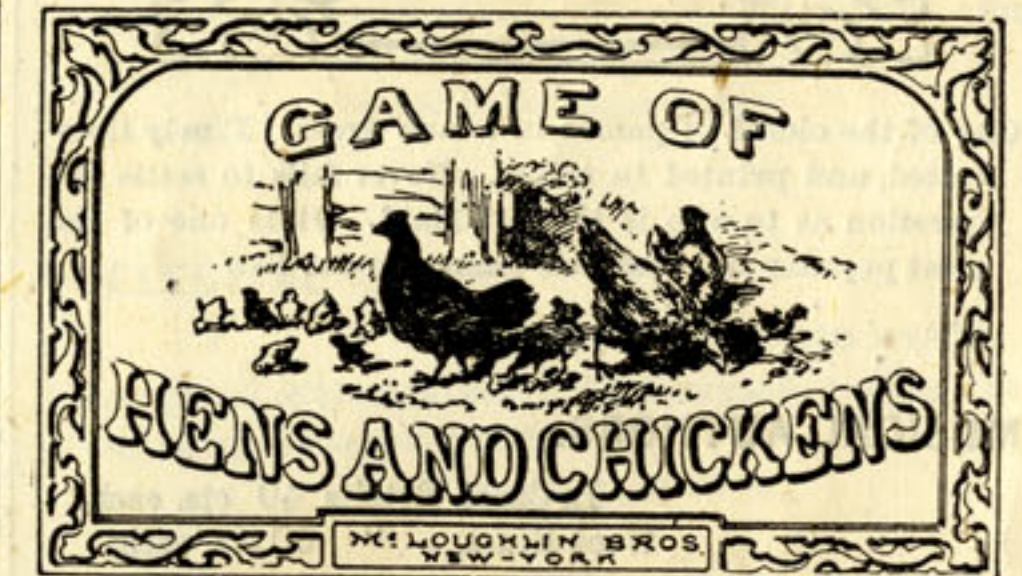

Games in which the play is based upon pairing the cards—the different pairs taking different ranks, have always been popular. Such is this game, with the addition of color, numbers, and an Indicator to give it zest. It is also very complete in its information regarding the Presidents.

HAPPY FAMILY.

The cards in this game are illustrated in colors, with comical characters, and arranged in families similar to those in the books of "Authors." The game is, to get the families together by calling. Large wooden box. Each family is lettered and numbered to facilitate playing.

HENS AND CHICKENS.

This very exciting and popular game, also makes use of the Indicator. A card, entitled "The Gamekeeper," forms a part of the game, and the players have to account to him for all the good and bad plays. The whole arrangement is novel, and ingenious, and the game ranks with the best on the market.

JAPANESE ORACLE.

This is a beautiful fortune-telling game, consisting of forty large cards, twenty of which are adorned by elegantly colored Japanese figures. They are suitable for the entertainment of a party, or for evening callers.

Little Folks' Series.

Retail 30c. each.

Criss Cross Spelling Slips.

No. 1, 6 Pictures each,	Retail 60c.
No. 2, 6 "	" "

A new amusement and puzzle for Little Folks, combining a perfect puzzle, a spelling game of the best kind, and building material for the famous old-fashioned Cob House—the delight of all children, from the prattling infant upward. This combination of amusement surpasses anything of its kind, and possesses double charms, because the Cob House is actually built in playing the game. Word-building is very instructive, but in itself would soon tire the young. But here the attention is diverted from the game to the building, sufficiently to make it light and agreeable. The pictures are bold, speaking portraiture of wild animals, elegantly printed in colors.

CHIROMAGICA:

Magical Hand and Mysterious Question-Answerer.

A REALLY WONDERFUL CONTRIVANCE.

MAGIC has been employed in various forms, in all ages, for the amusement of the people. CHIROMAGICA, or MAGICAL HAND, is Magic in a form entirely new, and is designed to furnish amusement for the old as well as the young folks.

In a fine black walnut box, about a foot square, a Magician is supposed to reside—one Hand only is in view—and, like his tribe, answers many questions in a mysterious manner correctly. In the box a glass plate with a face somewhat like a clock is fixed; but in place of the hours thirty-two circles with pictures and sentences are arranged. In the centre of the dial thus formed, a smaller circle is placed, and covers the Magician, leaving a clear circular space around the dial for the Magician's Hand to be seen.

A circular card, on which questions are printed, is made to fit the smaller circle. A question is selected, and the card placed over the Magician, when quickly and life-like, moving along the clear space, the Magician's Hand points to a picture or sentence, which is the correct answer to the question asked.

There are three circles, or dials, with pictures and answers, and question-cards to correspond—two of the dials can be moved at will—giving a large number and variety of questions and answers, and affording almost endless amusement for the family circle.

Price $2.50
