

that has not felt this influence—the oldest as well as the youngest.”

Our Associate, Dr. G. Stanley Hall, for many years connected with him at Johns Hopkins, says: “Dr. Gilman was essentially an inside president, his energies being chiefly devoted to details of management, to stimulating his professors by interesting himself personally in their work. His death terminates a career which will always be regarded as more or less epoch-making in the history of education in this country.”

Many books and pamphlets are from his pen, among them University Problems, Life of James Monroe, Life of James D. Dana, Introduction to DeTocqueville's Itinerary, Science and Letters in Yale, Historical Address at Norwich, Connecticut, and many addresses and reports. He also edited the writings of Francis Lieber and Joseph P. Thompson.

He married in 1861, Mary Ketcham, who died in 1869, leaving two children; and in 1877, Elizabeth Dwight Woolsey.

He was a member of many societies, American and foreign. He became a member of this Society in 1884, and it is indebted to him for his publications, sent as issued, which are very numerous and of great value.

George Sturgis Paine, died in London, England, August, 1908.

He was born in Worcester, Massachusetts, June 4, 1833, the son of Frederick William Paine, long a very active and important member of this Society. After a course in the schools of Worcester, our late Associate graduated from Harvard in 1853 with the degree of A. B., and later received that of A. M., from Harvard in 1860, from Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, in 1865, and from the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, in 1867. In 1853-4, and again in 1858-9, he traveled extensively in Europe. Returning to America, he was ordained a priest in the Protestant Episcopal Church, but never took a parish, though he preached in several places for considerable periods. Since 1895 he has resided in London. He became a member of this Society in 1867, and in many ways has shown an interest in its welfare, especially in giving to it a valuable collection of Paine manuscripts.

S. U.

Copyright of Proceedings of the American Antiquarian Society is the property of American Antiquarian Society and its content may not be copied or emailed to multiple sites or posted to a listserv without the copyright holder's express written permission. However, users may print, download, or email articles for individual use.